You'll be supervised and encouraged by a specialist and ECC residents. There will be a weekly journal club and presentations, as well as the opportunity to participate in research and publications.

VETERINARY UNIVERSITY CLINIC

The ECC department has two consultation rooms and a procedure one dedicated to emergencies. The ICU has state-of-the-art equipment such as a blood bank, oxygen cages, high flow, two mechanical ventilation units, and the possibility of performing extracorporeal treatments.

SKILLS

The Clinic is looking for veterinarians who have completed a rotating internship (or at least 2 years' experience in private practice), and who are passionate about ECC. Communication skills, empathy and team spirit are appreciated, as is the desire to help others and teach students.
